The Senior Full Stack Engineer leads programming development of websites; web applications; and emerging platforms - from creating user interface (UI) patterns to front and back-end deployment; and involved in all levels of development during the design process. Provides breadth between disparate User Experience (UX) development processes and guides decisions on technical strategy; architecture; tools; and utilities with clients. Leads efforts in reverse engineering of programming development.