This position requires a good understanding of data networks; WiFi networks; and IT security infrastructure in order to develop tools; utilities; and applications. These solutions will meet the Division of IT's business objectives.